In a market environment where valuation levels are approaching fair levels and sentiments, at least in part, are overly optimistic, it is highly probable that it will constantly get harder to earn a decent performance.

With its high return products INNOVATIS offers a smart solution for Investors, which want to enhance their chances to earn money on the markets despite this increasingly difficult environment.

Experienced professionals at INNOVATIS engineer products, that provide the investor with a high monthly coupon and offer an attractive overall return. The products have a maturity of only one year but can be already redeemed after one month, depending on the underlyings.

The special payment structure of these products leads to a high level of independence in regard to the development of the markets and furthermore creates a relevant safety buffer for the investor.
